"Art on The Hill"

An Open Juried Art Show

June 9-18

Juror Marilyn Fox, after graduating from Kutztown University, first wrote art reviews for the Reading Times, and freelanced for several magazine and publications, and volunteered on the fine arts board with the Reading Redevelopment Authority. In 1998, she became Gallery Director/Arts Coordinator at Penn State Berks where she curated exhibits and developed an acquisition program for the college's permanent collection. She now has a studio in what was once a carriage house. Her work is currently shown at the ADC Gallery in Cincinnati, Ohio, and is represented on Saatchi Art.

Renee Phillips, Director and Curator of Manhattan Arts International in New York, wrote of her art: "Few contemporary abstract artists possess the impactful creative versatility and skill that Marilyn Fox communicates through her expressive artwork. Her astounding expertise in combining a wide spectrum of colors, spontaneous gestural brushstrokes, and mark-making brings a captivating depth and dimension to her artistic vocabulary."
